FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Sept. 25, 2023

NMDOT will remove all signs posted on state road rights-of-way

DEMING – The New Mexico Department of Transportation informs New Mexicans, political candidates and vendors, state law prohibits any person from placing, maintaining, or displaying unauthorized signs upon any state right-of-way.

Especially during election years, signs are often posted on medians and roadsides. New Mexico Criminal and Traffic Law 66-7-108, under the title “Display of Unauthorized Signs, Signals and Markings,” states specifically, no political sign postings are allowed on state-maintained rights-of-way, which are typically defined by fencing on rural routes and to the back of the curb on urban routes.

Signs placed or encroaching on the rights-of-way, including signs mounted to the fencing or signs/signal support posts, will be removed.

NMDOT maintenance patrols are specifically instructed to remove all signs, political or otherwise, that have been illegally placed. The department does not discriminate when removing signs. Any item that impedes the roadway or right-of-way can be considered a safety issue to pedestrians, bicyclists, and motorists.

If anyone believes their signs have been removed and collected from a state road right-of-way by the NMDOT, they are welcome to contact their local NMDOT district office to collect the signs at an agreed-upon time and district location within two weeks.

The department does not guarantee the NMDOT will have the signs nor that they will be maintained in their original condition.

Questions can be directed to any NMDOT district office.
